Acknowledgement of Traditional Owners

CEHL acknowledges Indigenous Australians as the traditional owners of the country throughout Australia and their continuing connection to land, sea and community. We pay our respects to them and their cultures and to their elders both past and present.

Embracing social and cultural diversity

CEHL is committed to equality, inclusivity and respect.

What we do

CEHL partners with autonomous housing co-operatives to deliver the CEHL Housing Program.

We actively promote the value of co-operatives and the vital role co-operative models can play as part of the solution to Victoria's housing affordability crisis.

Co-ops are member-owned enterprises where members work together to meet their common economic, social and cultural needs and aspirations.

The co-op sector is an integral part of socio-economic rebuilding – focused on member and community needs first.

Co-operative Housing Program

Our housing program is an alternative to private rental or home-ownership.

Co-ops are run by members, for members. Each co-op is an independent organisation that works together to meet the needs of its own members within the framework of the CEHL Housing Program.

CEHL provides member co-ops with:

- Resources, for co-ops to meet their members' needs and support their development
- Program management, providing a framework for program delivery and decision making
- Property portfolio management, using our status as a registered Housing Association and charity, to provide member co-ops with the affordable housing they need
- Reporting and advocacy on behalf of co-ops

Regulation and compliance

As a registered Housing Association, CEHL reports to the Housing Registrar (on behalf of co-ops) who regulates registered housing agencies in Victoria.

The regulatory framework administered by the Housing Registrar aims to strengthen housing agencies' capacity to attract, develop and protect capital investment; manage existing housing stock; and support and protect low-income tenants.

As a registered Housing Association, CEHL delivers a housing program that offers significant rent subsidy to eligible members and can access government funding, when available, to grow the housing program.

We are pleased to present the 2020-21 Annual Report to members, an overview of the work we have achieved together; member co-operatives and CEHL over the past 12 months.

In our member-orientated and purpose-driven business, much has been achieved in challenging circumstances. While the impact of the COVID-19 pandemic has, and will continue to play out for some time, many silver linings and opportunities have risen.

We welcome the much needed financial support from the State Government, both for maintenance and to support new homes being built. This silver lining of the pandemic has enabled rapid escalation of works and opened up new opportunities which will have ongoing positive outcomes for co-ops and our Program.

Our new Strategic Plan – Towards 2025 reaffirms our belief that we are stronger together, that delivering the CEHL Housing Program in partnership with coops brings unique value to co-op members and the broader community.

We look forward to working with newly appointed Managing Director Liz Thomas, co-ops and employees on our Toward 2025 vision of Empowered people. Thriving co-ops. Better housing solutions.

We'd like to acknowledge Stephen Nash's outstanding contribution to CEHL and the Program. During Stephen's 8.5 years, CEHL modernised and built very strong foundations for our future.

Thank you to all co-ops, members and employees for your work throughout the year, adapting to the challenges the COVID-19 pandemic has presented – your co-operative values and dedication have shone through!

We encourage you to read about the past year's activities and achievements, and thank you for the part you have played in accomplishing them.

Empowered people

Company Rent and Affordability Benchmark Advisory Group

Purpose

To examine the current and alternative company rent model and affordability benchmark. Recommend a company rent model and affordability benchmark that best balances Program Principles and the needs of co-ops.

Members

Members of the advisory group were appointed based on selection criteria for the period of the consultation (2018-2020). The advisory group was made up of four co-op members, an independent chair and an independent technical advisor.

Following the resignation of the committee members in 2019/20, the remaining two members closed out the committee's work supported by the Policy Advisory Committee and the Co-op Program Committee which concluded in December 2020.

Name	Role
Bruce Fraser	Co-op Member
T. Raveendiran (Ravi)	Co-op Member

Final report

The Company Rent and Affordability Benchmark Review project was conducted during 2018-2020. Feedback from the consultation found that member co-ops did not show broad support for a change to the 25% affordability benchmark. Co-op input into the content and process was extremely valuable for the Board to factor into their decision. The Board decided there would be no change to the 25% affordability benchmark without further consultation. The change to the Company Rent Model will be developed based on feedback provided within the workbooks co-ops completed during the consultation with the aim of allowing further flexibility in tasks that co-ops wish to undertake. The Board thanks all the people involved in the Advisory Group, the co-ops and their members who provided feedback throughout the consultation.

BCCM Leader's Summit: Sustainability Edition

The Business Council of Co-operatives and Mutuals' (BCCM) Annual Leaders' Summit (March 2021) rallied the Co-op and Mutual Enterprise (CME) sector to seize the opportunity to transform our communities, economy and Australia's future by leveraging the innate difference in the way co-ops and mutuals 'do business'.

CEHL Board members and employees attended the conference. CEHL Chairperson, Heidi Lee, presented at a panel on business sustainability alongside panelists from ASIC, BAL Lawyers, Finity Consulting and Point Advisory.

CHIA Vic Big Housing Build event

Networking with housing sector representatives and government at the Community Housing Industry Association (CHIA Vic) Big Build and other similar events enables CEHL board members, executive and staff to establish strong relationships.

The sector has been working closely together which is reflected in a number of strategies developed for the benefit all housing associations and providers.

CEHL co-op members participate in Articulating Value in Housing Co-operatives Research

CEHL housing co-op members are taking part in this important research for our sector. The research seeks to identify the benefits of housing co-operatives and how those benefits are created.

The research is being conducted by Western Sydney University, Swinburne University of Technology, and the University of Newcastle Australia, and is supported by the Australian Research Council and the Australian Co-operative Housing Alliance (ACHA) of which CEHL is a member.

Thriving co-operatives

Sally thriving in co-op

"Lakewood Co-op is a big part of my life and holds a lot of special memories for me. I have made a lot of great friends and am part of an amazing community," Lakewood Co-op member Sally Stamm.

Finding a place to call home took some time for Sally. Living in 'limbo', Sally moved from bedsit to bungalow. "I wasn't able to really live. I'd never experienced true stability with regards to housing. Being on a pension and finding rent that I could afford was a stressful rat race. There was no point in unpacking boxes because I was always on the move."

An opportunity, over 10 years ago, to take part in a personal and community development program run by CEHL (at Lifeworks in Ringwood) led Sally to become one of the members of Lakewood Housing Co-operative.

"I cried tears of deep joy when I received the letter to say that I had been offered a home at Lakewood and I have always viewed it as a wonderful gift from CEHL."

"I never thought in a million years that I would ever have an opportunity to settle."

"Being part of the co-op, I've come out of my shell."
Through the support of co-op members and CEHL's Co-op
Development Coordinators, Sally's confidence in her own abilities has grown, she's taken on roles as co-op secretary and is now is on the Lakewood Member Selection Committee.

While the extensive refurbishment works are underway at Lakewood, co-op members are currently rehoused in the local area. It's been especially challenging during COVID lockdowns and Sally can't wait to get back to Lakewood and connect with her co-op community.

"The best thing about being part of a co-op is the sense of community – not feeling alone and making so many new friends. I can't wait to get back to my apartment, games nights, sharing food – we are like a big family."

Thriving co-operatives

Online question and answer forums

Question and Answer forums (Q&As) were established in 2020 to enable member co-ops and program participants to learn more about Program issues, processes, ask questions and offer new ideas. Topics covered included the CEHL Rent model and How Co-ops Influence the Program. Sessions were well attended and are an effective forum for information sharing.

Co-op development and training

Co-op development focused on empowering and working in partnership with co-ops, and managing vacancies. Significant work was done developing and running training workshops regarding the new Tenancy Laws. Three training workshops were developed and delivered over the year:

- · Making virtual meetings work
- · Changes to Tenancy Laws
- Developing your Co-op

Tenancy and co-op services: here to help

The Tenancy and Co-op Services Team incorporates both tenancy management and finance services, working with co-op members, co-op treasurers and renters.

During the past year we have supported many people through the challenges of changed income and circumstances due to the impact of the COVID pandemic. The flexibility of our rent model helps people when they need it the most.

Despite the interruption to our usual methods of providing tenancy and finance services, the team have provided outstanding service in challenging circumstances. COVID restrictions made us rapidly rethink the way we usually deliver services. Virtual tenancy inspections have been a real success, introduced during lockdowns and appreciated by many renters.

The number of tenancies and properties directly managed by CEHL has increased, a reflection of co-ops making choices about the range of responsibilities they want to take on, and what is of value to their co-op.

Co-op Program Committee (CPC) established July 2020

The Co-op Program Committee:

- Provides advice to the CEHL Board on increasing member voice and its impact
- Takes actions that lead to the CEHL Co-operative Housing Program being co-op led
- Builds the capacity of co-ops and their members in engagement and governance

CPC objectives

Help build stronger relationships and trust between co-ops and their members with the co-op program

Increase confidence of co-op members with decision-making on co-op program issues, in which the CPC has been involved

CO OP To appropriately reflect the co-operative values and principles in how CPC operates

See the CPC report on page 38 for more details.

Achieving objectives through opting in to VHR

The Board opted-in to the Victorian Housing Register (VHR) in December 2019, a central database designed to enable all people needing affordable housing to be considered for vacancies in both community and government housing.

The key objectives for participating in VHR was to:

- Access growth funds
- · Maintain co-op and program viability
- Access to wider range eligible and co-op interested applicants

After 12 months of implementation, a review was undertaken and found that participation had met all objectives. Bringing access and opportunity for government funding enabling CEHL to provide more affordable housing, for more people. Housing allocation targets were easily exceeded without impact on co-op or Program viability.

Implementation of the VHR has not been without challenges. CEHL and co-ops continue to work together to improve the referral and transfer processes. Recent activities to attract genuinely 'co-op interested' applicants are proving positive, and co-ops play a large role in advocating the value and benefit of co-op housing at Information Sessions.

*Percentage is a weighted average of CERC, CMC and VicWide renters. 1,892 households surveyed (by email), 25% response

The Member (Tenant) Satisfaction Survey is conducted in accordance with the requirements of the Housing Registrar. The results from the survey are aggregated in the sector and included in the Housing Registrar's Sector Performance Report along with key performance measures listed under 'How we performed' page 23.

CEHL conducted the survey in June 2020, which was delayed due to the COVID-19 pandemic. It was a time of widespread tension and anxiety in the community.

The survey found an overall decrease in 'member/tenant' satisfaction levels, a trend experienced across the sector. CEHL fell below the sector benchmarks, and measures are in place to address issues identified in each category.

As the survey is completed anonymously, CEHL was unable to determine from the data if respondents had recently received CEHL services.

To address this issue, surveys capturing feedback at the time of service delivery were introduced in 2021.

Results so far are promising, with an 88% satisfaction rate. We are looking to roll out the timely surveys for other CEHL services.

Impact of COVID on the Program

Program revenue shortfall of $1.39 million – CEHL services and building works affected.

The CEHL rent model responds to changing circumstances and supports households when they need it most. When COVID-19 restrictions were implemented throughout 2020-21 some household members lost their jobs or had reduced work hours, that resulted in reduced income.

Revenue was also impacted by the moratorium on rent increases. Households whose rent increased in this period paid less than the 25% affordability benchmark during the year. Some households scheduled to pay an increase due to higher incomes pre-COVID, were also unable to be processed due to the moratorium.

The overall loss of revenue to the Program was $1.39 million, resulting in less maintenance works than originally proposed.

Lockdowns also significantly impacted the delivery of maintenance, building works, property and tenancy inspections. In addition, tenanting vacant properties and recruiting new members was challenging during this time.

85

Maintaining housing security

In the past financial year, eighty-five households in the CEHL program applied for, and received, an immediate reduction in their rent, supporting them to manage COVID impacts.

Better housing solutions

$11.1M biggest ever investment in property improvements

CEHL's successful bid for Victorian Government Housing Stimulus funding has meant an additional $6.7 million for program property upgrades. Together with a budget of $4.4 million of planned works, will enable significant increase of works over two years.

This financial boost brings forward vital climate and home energy efficiency upgrades in addition to planned works.

Our bid was underpinned by the detailed understanding of our property portfolio. Essential background work completed, over recent years, by working together with co-op maintenance directors, coupled with CEHL's Asset Management Strategy.

Access to the extra funds was made possible through CEHL's participation in the Victorian Housing Register (VHR) and by being a regulated Housing Association.

Satisfaction

Recent surveys indicate high levels of satisfaction with works completed and services provided

Upgrading more homes than ever

Combining government funds and CEHL's annual property upgrade budget, this year sees CEHL's biggest ever investment in property improvements to be undertaken over a two-year period.

The $6.7 million stimulus funding for program properties has enabled an additional 500+ fully funded projects to be directed toward:

- General upgrades to reduce maintenance liability and risk
- Energy efficiency improvements
- Climate risk reduction

COVID impact on works

CEHL's planned works<sup>1</sup> budget of $4.4 will be rolled out over two-years as scheduling and timing of works has been challenging throughout 2020–21.

The COVID-19 pandemic has significantly impacted works with extended periods of building work restrictions, long lead times and increasing costs for supplies and labour.

As of 30 June 2021, 59 Stimulus projects and 129 Third Schedule projects were completed. Our ambitious plan for the 21/22 financial year is to complete the stimulus and planned works that have been scheduled in consultation with co-ops.

Planned works 2020-2022

Planned works includes cyclical and Third Schedule works such as bathroom and kitchen upgrades, structural works, external works, and planned replacements.

Working together CEHL and Co-ops

To deliver the high volume of works the Asset Management Team has reorganised to improve efficiencies. The positive feedback gained so far, indicates high satisfaction with information provided and works provided.

The changes have created more opportunity for detailed discussions with co-ops about works plans and issues that require support. We appreciate the level of engagement and positivity co-ops have shown to this new way of working together.

"The new, all-white upgrade looks pretty jazzy for a 'small budget model' and is a much brighter, and way more user-friendly workplace than the 1950s version it replaced."

Anette, Eyrie CERC

Lakewood refurbishment works

CEHL secured a $15 million low interest loan through National Housing Finance and Investment Corporation (NHFIC), in part, to complete the repair and refurbishment works to the existing Lakewood building in Ringwood, consisting of 80 two and three-bedroom apartments.

The works will rectify moisture ingress issues and upgrade liveability, energy efficiency, ventilation systems and the amenity of the site for all residents.

The balance of NHFIC funds are being utilised to support the growth of the Program property pipeline.

Property developments

Property planning and governance process

Planning a pipeline and location of new properties is informed by; Co-op Future Direction Plans (FDP), CEHL's Asset Management Strategy and portfolio data, balanced with opportunities to acquire stock from developers or existing CEHL owned sites for redevelopment.

The Property Committee review proposals and the CEHL Board have the final sign off for all projects. It's a detailed process with many checks and balances to include co-op considerations, maintain a consistent process and delivery of property and housing outcomes in the Program.

Co-op Future Direction Plans guides the process

Co-op Future Directions Plans are the foundation tool for CEHL and co-ops to assess property opportunities. When opportunities arise through property hand back, disposal or development, as well as new acquisitions, co-op FDP data is used to recommend the property for allocation through an Expression of Interest (EOI) process. Property transactions provide co-ops with the opportunity to review their portfolios, right-size their households and increase their membership by adding a property to their portfolio.

Property utilisation and right-sizing properties

Effective utilisation of properties achieves positive outcomes for renters and revenue – for both co-ops and CEHL. We work together with co-ops and renters to meet the housing needs of their members and minimise vacancies across the Program.

Emma's family of five needed to be relocated as the property no longer met our Program standard. While one member downsized to a property suitable for their needs, Emma and her family moved into a family-sized home in the inner city, perfectly meeting their needs.

"We feel like we won lotto... we can't quite believe that we now have a four-bedroom beautiful house in Carlton to call home."

Emma, Access Co-op member

Properties underway and in planning

Property disposals (sold)

· 25 properties

Property acquisitions (purchased)

- 18 Program acquisitions
- 11 Capital investment acquisitions

Program property pipeline to be delivered in the coming financial year

- 50 new program properties in various regions with a mix of 2, 3 and 4 bedroom homes
- 1 multi-residential development Brunswick (16 apartments), expected delivery 2022/23

Capital investment acquisitions

CEHL purchases capital investment properties to return funds to the Program and provide much needed affordable housing for low-income households. As a registered Housing Association and through CEHL's charitable status, CEHL can access tax benefits and grants that otherwise could not be applied to the Program.

The benefits return two-fold, by providing affordable housing for low-income households and returning funds to the Program through rent, and when the properties are sold. In the last financial year these properties provided net income of $476k to the Program.

Properties acquired for capital investment are not suitable for co-op program use, as they will be sold in the short term which does not enable CEHL to meet the Program Principle of Security of Tenure.

How we work

Our dedicated teams of employees are committed to providing outstanding service to member co-ops, and direct tenants in the housing program across Victoria. Our teams create a supportive and inclusive workplace culture and demonstrate the organisations values in their everyday work. The organisation is managed in two teams Corporate and Program. The Corporate Team provides business services to the organisation. The Program Team provides program management, co-op development and resourcing tenancy and management and maintenance.
